A Boyhood Dream Fulfilled

Doc Sanborn's passion for the Adirondacks was ignited at a young age. As a boy, he spent countless hours exploring the forests and waters near his home in Saranac Lake. At the age of 12, he embarked on his first camping trip with his father, a journey that would forever change the course of his life.

"I remember that trip like it was yesterday," Doc recalls. "We paddled across Ampersand Lake and set up camp on a secluded island. As the sun began to set, casting golden hues across the water, I knew that I had found my true calling."

Years later, after serving in the Navy during World War II, Doc returned home with a burning desire to share his love of the wilderness with others.

In 1947, he Free Downloaded a small tract of land on the shores of Lower Saranac Lake and established Sanborn's Camp.

Creating a Wilderness Paradise

The early days of Sanborn's Camp were full of challenges. Doc had limited resources and relied heavily on the help of friends and family to build the cabins, dining hall, and other facilities. But through hard work and perseverance, he gradually transformed the property into a thriving wilderness retreat.

Doc's philosophy was simple: provide guests with a comfortable and rustic experience that would allow them to fully immerse themselves in the beauty of the Adirondacks. He wanted them to feel like they were stepping back in time, to a world where the rhythms of nature still held sway.

"I wanted to create a place where people could escape the hustle and bustle of everyday life and reconnect with the natural world," Doc explains. "A place where they could relax, adventure, and create memories that would last a lifetime."

A Legacy of Adventure

Over the years, Sanborn's Camp has become a beloved destination for outdoor enthusiasts from all over the world. Guests can enjoy a wide range of activities, including hiking, paddling, fishing, and wildlife viewing. They can choose to stay in one of the cozy cabins, or they can opt for a more rustic experience by camping under the stars.

No matter how they choose to spend their time at Sanborn's Camp, guests are sure to be inspired by the beauty of the surroundings and the warmth of the camp community. Doc Sanborn's unwavering commitment to preserving the wilderness has ensured that future generations will be able to experience the same magic that he discovered as a boy.
